Places Visited

Bosworth Battlefield Heritage Centre

Bosworth Battlefield Heritage Centre tells the dramatic story of the Battle of Bosworth on 22nd August 1485, which marked a major turning point in English history. The centre offers the opportunity to discover more about the Battle of 1485 where Richard III fought for his crown and lost his life, and Henry Tudor became king. With interactive, hands-on displays you can find out more about medieval warfare, how the battle unfolded and the impact of the new and powerful Tudor dynasty as well as how archaeologists discovered the true location of the Battle.

St James Church Sutton Cheney

King Richard III is reputed to have heard his last mass at the Church of St. James at Sutton Cheney, on the eve of Bosworth. Few alterations have been carried out to the church since 1485, apart from the addition to the top of the tower. A memorial service and wreath laying ceremony is held at the church annually on the Sunday nearest to August 22nd.

Leicester Cathedral

The Cathedral Church of St. Martin, Leicester – commonly known as Leicester Cathedral, has been a site of worship for approximately a thousand years, being first recorded in 1086 when the older Saxon church was replaced by a Norman one. It is here that Richard III's remains were laid to rest on 26 March 2015. Just over 100 years ago the Victorian Architect, Raphael Brandon, magnificently restored and, in places, rebuilt the church, including the addition of a 220ft spire which is a magnificent sight to behold. Leicester Cathedral is of utmost historical and architectural importance, and remains symbolically and physically at the heart of Leicester today.

Richard III Visitor Centre

In August 2012, Leicester City Council purchased an old school with the aim of creating a centre that would tell the story of the remarkable search for –and at that point unconfirmed discovery of – King Richard III. The incredible transformation of the former Alderman Newton's School, located right next to the spot where the king's remains were found, was completed in record time and the King Richard III Visitor Centre opened its doors to the public on 26 July 2014. The centre tells the fascinating and moving story of the king's life and death, and reveals one of the greatest archaeological detective stories ever told. The centre is divided into three sections – dynasty, death and discovery, each providing a unique insight into various aspects of this engaging and fascinating topic. Exhibits include both a partial and the full facial reconstruction, giving visitors the chance to see the work in progress and the final reconstruction of Richard. There is also a replica of Richard's skeleton, printed using 3D technology.

Fotheringhay: St Mary & All Saints Church

The beautiful Perpendicular style Church of St Mary and All Saints, with its distinctive tall tower, is situated above the River Nene at the village of Fotheringhay in Northamptonshire. It contains memorials to many of the members of the House of York. The present church was built by King Edward III who was also responsible for the building of a college as a cloister on the church's southern side.

Prebendal Manor House

The oldest house in Northamptonshire, Prebendal Manor dates to the early 13th century. The house is just one of a group of historical buildings on this site; near the manor are a 16th century dovecote, a 15th century guest lodging, and a large 18th century tithe barn. Surrounding these historic buildings is a recreated medieval garden.

Kirby Muxloe Castle

Built in the 15th century, Kirby Muxloe Castle is a picturesque fortified mansion which was built for Lord William Hastings, 1st Baron Hastings, during the War of the Roses. Lord Hastings was dramatically seized and executed by Richard III in 1483 for treason which prevented the completion of the castle. Many of Hastings' descendants still believe they have a direct line to the throne of England. During your visit, you will be able to explore the atmospheric moated remains – including the fine gatehouse and a complete corner tower – of this brick-built mansion which have been extensively conserved by English Heritage.

His latest books include "Richard III and the Battle of Bosworth" and "Northampton: 5,000 years of history".

Guest speaker:

Guest speaker Dr Richard Buckley will give a talk on the second evening of the tour about the discovery of the remains of Richard III. 'The King under the Car Park - Greyfriars, Leicester and the Search for Richard III'. In August and September 2012, a team of archaeologists from the University of Leicester set out to search for the final resting place of Richard III in a car park in central Leicester. Against all odds, the project proved to be successful in locating a potential candidate to be the king, and his identity was subsequently confirmed beyond reasonable doubt after an extensive programme of scientific analysis, generating press interest from all around the globe. Dr Richard Buckley OBE is a graduate in archaeology from the Universities of Durham and Leicester and has spent over 30 years working as an archaeologist in Leicester, specialising in complex Roman and medieval urban sites and historic buildings. He was lead archaeologist from the University of Leicester on the Search for Richard project.
